INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to the Court's April 10, 2018 Order Preliminarily Approving Settlement, and the applicable Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the law firm of Johnson Becker, PLLC ("Johnson Becker"), respectfully asks this Court to award it attorneys' fees from the settlement fund in the amount of $8,000,000. Additionally, the firm requests $138,130.94 in costs that were incurred to advance the litigations. These amounts are reasonable for two reasons: First, Johnson Becker represents 3,257 farmers who were injured by Syngenta's conduct. Long before the class was certified, or a recovery was ever envisioned, the firm's clients retained Johnson Becker to represent them on a contingency fee basis. Specifically, the retainer agreement contemplated a forty-percent (40%) contingency fee which is typical in complex litigation.

While the exact amount our clients will recovery is not yet known, a reasonable estimate is that the firm's clients will likely receive between $25,000,000 and $34,000,000 based on the anticipated claims rate of all producers and those of the clients we represent. See Table 1 set forth in Section II. A.[1] Based on this estimate, the corresponding fee predicated on this recovery would range between $10,000,000 and $13,600,000.

Of course, we recognize the Court will likely award an attorney fee from the total settlement fund that, based on a percentage basis, is less than Johnson Becker's contingency fee agreements. As such, Johnson Becker is not asking to receive more than the same percentage of the settlement fund that is set aside for attorneys' fees. On the contrary, we note this amount merely to establish the validity of the fee request made in this case. Specifically, the requested fee represents an anticipated deduction of approximately 20% to 41.2% from the private agreements our clients executed.

Second, the requested fee is justified when measured against the firm's lodestar in this case. At the time of this submission, Johnson Becker incurred $6,442,027.50 in fees. As set forth below, these fees directly advanced both the litigation as a whole as well as the rights of our clients. The requested fee represents a nominal multiplier of 1.25 times our lodestar, which is consistent with this District's and the Tenth Circuit's precedent. Under either approach, the request for $8,000,000 in fees is reasonable and ought to be awarded. Johnson Becker additionally requests reimbursement for expenses in the amount of $138,130.94. A breakdown of this lodestar is demonstrated in the attached Declaration of Michael K. Johnson ("Johnson Dec."), at paragraph 12. Johnson Becker's request for fees and expenses is fair and reasonable when analyzed under either the lodestar or the percentage of the fund approach and is supported by the law of this District and the Tenth Circuit. Accordingly, the Court ought to award Johnson Becker $8,000,000 in attorney's fees and $138,130,94 in costs.

FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

This Court is intimately familiar with the unique history of this case, and a thorough history need not be repeated here. Instead, this petition will focus on Johnson Becker's contributions to that history, and how its contributions helped shape a meaningful recovery for its clients and all producers across the country. Johnson Becker has been an active player in the Syngenta Litigation[2] before the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation's (JPML) Transfer Order was entered on

[2] Johnson Becker uses the label "Syngenta Litigation" to collectively refer to this Court's consolidated cases, including all class actions (2:14-MD-02591-JWL-JPO), the Minnesota State Court consolidation (27-cv-15-3785 and 27-cv-12625), the consolidated cases in the Southern District of Illinois (3:16-cv-00255-DRH) and the consolidated cases in Williamson County, Illinois (2015-L-157).

December 11, 2014. In re: Syngenta AG MIR 162 Corn Litig., MDL No. 2591 (Dkt. 193). Conveniently located in Minnesota—one of the country's largest producers of corn—Johnson Becker attorneys were able to meet face-to-face with producers across the state and the region. As described below, Johnson Becker took active roles in multiple jurisdictions in order to move the ball forward on behalf of the global litigation, all while working to prosecute the individual claims of 3,257 producers and landlords, and keep every client updated on the status of the litigation.

I. Johnson Becker's Individual Client Work and Interactions

A. Clients Represented by Johnson Becker

Johnson Becker represents 3,257 producers and landlords comprising approximately 1.22 million acres[3] of corn. Johnson Dec. at 4–5. Throughout the pendency of this litigation, and as outlined below, Johnson Becker was committed to working up each individual claim, preparing claims for resolution, and keeping clients up-to-date on all news and developments in the case. In exchange for its services, Johnson Becker's clients agreed to compensate the firm on a contingency fee of 40% of any amount recovered, inclusive of costs and expenses.[4] An exemplar retainer agreement is attached as Exhibit D.

B. Client Outreach and Claim Preparation

Johnson Becker believed from the very beginning that this case is about finding justice for American farmers. In addition to securing a fair recovery for those farmers, the goal of our firm and its clients was to send a clear message to Syngenta and other global seed corporations: the American farmer is unwilling to bear the loss of Syngenta's gamble to rush unapproved traits to market. Johnson Becker believed strongly that it was important for producers to send this message both individually and collectively. Producers acted individually by actively pursuing their own lawsuit. At the same time, as individual producers' lawsuits continued to increase during the course of the litigation, they collectively added to the litigation pressure against Syngenta.

[3] This amount estimates 2013 corn acreage only.

[4] Over 99.8% of Johnson Becker's retainer agreements in this litigation operate at a 40% contingency fee. In less than a half-dozen instances, Johnson Becker executed retainer agreements at a fee of 33 and 1/3% or 30%. See Ex. C.

Johnson Becker spoke with thousands of farmers across the country who wanted to know how they could hold Syngenta responsible, and hopefully recoup some or all of their losses. One such method of accountability that was important to thousands of farmers that Johnson Becker spoke with was their right to bring an individual lawsuit. When a producer chose to retain Johnson Becker, the firm immediately opened his or her case in database management software. Johnson Dec. at 76–77. A staff member would ensure that retainer agreements were properly executed, and would proceed to verify the client's information. Johnson Dec. at 77. During this phase, an attorney would review the file and determine the applicable statute of limitations. Johnson Dec. at 76. A staff member would then begin compiling all of the relevant records for the client, including FSA records, seed and grain receipts, insurance information, and lease agreement (if applicable). Johnson Dec. at 79. In the opening stages of a claim, each client also received a phone call to determine the proper entity to bring the claim(s). Johnson Dec. at 82.

C. Case Development and Claim Prosecution

As soon as claims were opened at Johnson Becker, they were also prepared for litigation and the ensuing Plaintiff Fact Sheet process. Johnson Dec. at 79. Each case was investigated before filing by reviewing all available records, as described above, and was reviewed by an attorney. Johnson Dec. at 76. Eventually, Complaints were drafted for over 1800 cases, which were filed in the Minnesota state court consolidation, in Williamson County, Illinois and in the Southern District of Illinois. Johnson Dec. at 107–08. Plaintiff Fact Sheets were initially completed by clients with the help of Johnson Becker paralegals and legal assistants, and once completed, reviewed by an attorney. In total, Johnson Becker worked up over 2300 PFSs and served about 220 PFSs. Johnson Dec. at 17, 20.

As part of our ongoing commitment to our clients, each client received both periodic update letters and additional update letters when key events occurred during the course of the case, either in general or specific to a particular client's case. Johnson Dec. 83–86. In addition, with every correspondence, each client was reminded that we were here for them to answer any questions that they may have – again, regarding either the case in general or their case in particular. Johnson Dec. 83, 94. As is the same with any client in our firm, our attorneys and staff were instructed to return all client calls and inquiries the same day, if possible, or if not possible, within 24 hours. Johnson Dec. at 94–98. In short, unlike a member of a class during the pendency of a case, each client of Johnson Becker had the opportunity to make decisions on their own case and to have a law firm available to update them and answer any of their questions. To a farmer, particularly in turbulent economic times, in a litigation that was designed to recoup losses that for some farmers that means the difference between a loss and a profit, the ability to keep abreast of the latest developments, control the decisions in your own case and have a lawyer who will return your calls within 24 hours to discuss any of these issues was not a trivial matter.

During the opt-out period of the case, Johnson Becker counselled its clients with regard to their rights and choices regarding their decision to opt-out or stay in either the nationwide or Minnesota class case. In some cases, when it was the right choice for the client, Johnson Becker advised the client not to opt-out of the class case. Johnson Dec. 95. However, believing that individual claims were the key to creating litigation pressure that would eventually result in a settlement, Johnson Becker advised the majority of its clients to opt-out of their respective class actions. Its philosophy was that a meaningful settlement would only be achieved as a result of the pressure applied by prosecuting individual cases. Johnson Becker remains confident that the significant settlement fund that was obtained in this case was made possible only through the joint efforts—and although contentious at times—symbiotic relationship between class counsel and the vast number of producers who chose to actively prosecute their individual cases.

As part of the opt-out process, Johnson Becker attorneys and staff called over 3,300 clients—with the majority receiving multiple phone calls—to inform them of their opt-out rights and choices, and the consequences of either course of action. Johnson Dec. at 95. For clients who were homebound or otherwise could not reach a post office in time to effectively opt-out, Johnson Becker went so far as to provide a signature service that traveled to the client's home to obtain his or her signature on an opt-out form. Johnson Dec. at 91. In total, between the MDL and Minnesota litigations, Johnson Becker received 3,257 completed opt-out forms and submitted them to the applicable administrator, again, adding to the total litigation pressure against Syngenta.[5] Johnson Dec. at 91.

D. Ongoing Research and Analysis

Throughout the course of this litigation, Johnson Becker expended significant time on research on behalf of its clients, some of which benefitted all producers. This included a Statute of Limitations analysis for each case, as well as a state-by-state analysis of law to discern all viable claims. Johnson Dec. at 76, 110. In addition, Johnson Becker conducted a nationwide analysis of cross-jurisdictional and intra-jurisdictional class action tolling law based on the principles set forth

[5] Approximately 10% of Johnson Becker's former clients chose not to exercise their right to opt-out of the class case(s). Although a significant amount of work was done on behalf of a number of those farmers, Johnson Becker is not making a claim for any fees or time spent related to those clients. Johnson Dec. at 95.

in America Pipe & Const. Co. v. Utah, 414 U.S. 538 (1974) ("American Pipe tolling"). Johnson Dec. at 110.

Johnson Becker also conducted significant legal research on class actions. Johnson Dec. at 110. This research was done in support of Johnson Becker's Motion to Vacate Portions of the Minnesota Class Notice Order, and to require Class Notice to go to all producers. In addition, Johnson Becker found case law supporting the notion that SSN and TIN information should not be required information in order for a class member to demonstrate a desire to opt-out of a class. Johnson Dec. at 111. Johnson Becker was successful on this point, and as a result, no Minnesota class member was required to supply this sensitive information in order to opt out of the class.

E. Settlement and Claims Form Work

When the tentative settlement agreement was announced in October 2017, Johnson Becker again kept its clients abreast of these developments, explaining the facts of the proposed settlement and dispelling the inevitable rumors that arose with news of a settlement. Johnson Dec. at 83–84. During the pendency of the settlement negotiations, Johnson Becker sent additional update letters to its clients in an effort to keep them properly updated. Johnson Dec. at 83–85. In addition, once the final settlement was reached, Johnson Becker sent a letter to each client informing them of the details of the settlement, recommending the settlement to them, and more importantly sending them a Claim Form with a significant amount of information pre-filled, along with instructions for completing and submitting the Claim Form. Johnson Dec. at 87–93.

This process has been invaluable to our clients. For example, some clients said that they never received the Class Notice; some never read the Class Notice; some read the Class Notice, but struggled to understand it; some are not technologically savvy enough to complete an online Claim Form; some do not trust electronic submissions that contain sensitive information; some do not understand the claims process; and for some, only through a detailed discussion with an attorney about the Claims process did they/we learn that they had not thought about all of their entities, and in turn, would not have been fully compensated.[6] Johnson Dec. at 93. Johnson Becker continues to assist its clients in completing and submitting Claim Forms and answering any questions that its clients have about the settlement and claims process. Johnson Becker will continue this process until all of its client's claims are submitted.

Johnson Becker has invested heavily in this case from the very beginning. It has spent considerable time and resources litigating its client's cases across the country and has spent considerable time interacting with its clients and working on their behalf. These activities, and the benefit they conferred on all plaintiffs, justify Johnson Becker's fee request.

II. Johnson Becker's Involvement in the Broader Litigation

Unwilling to sit on the sidelines, Johnson Becker filed cases in jurisdictions where it hoped it could best position its clients' cases and apply litigation pressure on Syngenta. This included individual case filings in Minnesota, and Illinois state and federal courts. See, e.g., Abrams et al. v. Syngenta Corp., et al., No. 27-cv-17-17358; Abell et al. v. Syngenta Seeds, LLC, et al., No. 16IL233. In these jurisdictions, Johnson Becker engaged in discovery by producing Plaintiff Fact Sheets as directed by the court, conducted document review, and fiercely advocated for its clients through motion practice. Johnson Becker's efforts to advance the litigation continually applied pressure on Syngenta and contributed to the sizeable settlement fund obtained in this litigation. This justifies Johnson Becker's request for fees and expenses in this case.

[6] To be clear, Johnson Becker is not criticizing how the Class Notice was distributed or the content of the Class Notice. Rather, Johnson Becker is merely noting that a significant portion of its clients still had a number of questions and concerns about their rights and choices that required, and still requires, explanation from legal counsel with whom they know, and in turn knows them.

A. The Minnesota Consolidation

Johnson Becker filed 1,352 cases in Minnesota state court, including before the cases were consolidated Hennepin County. Johnson Dec. at 107. Johnson Becker helped shape the landscape of the Minnesota litigation. For example, Johnson Becker filed the first request to the Minnesota Supreme Court asking that the Minnesota state court cases be consolidated in one jurisdiction. Johnson Dec. at 117. Although Johnson Becker was not appointed to the Minnesota Leadership, it worked with Co-Lead Counsel (with the help of Special Master Judge Van de North) to negotiate terms to the Common Benefit Order that were fair to all counsel, like our firm, who wanted to apply additional litigation pressure on Syngenta by filing cases outside of Minnesota. Johnson Dec. at 115.

Johnson Becker also challenged practices that it believed would not be in the best interests of producers. In January 2017, Johnson Becker challenged the Minnesota Class Notice proposal, arguing that the Minnesota Court should send Notice to all Minnesota producers. See Mem. in Supp. Of Mot. to Vacate Certain Portions of the Order Approving Class Notice, Jan. 6, 2017 (Hennepin Cnty. Index #749). Johnson Becker's Motion was successful in convincing the Minnesota Court to remove the requirement that a Minnesota producer provide his or her Social Security Number (SSN) or Tax Identification Number (TIN) as part of the opt-out process. Johnson Dec. at 112. Many of Johnson Becker's clients were rightfully apprehensive about providing sensitive SSN/TIN information, and having that requirement removed resulted in a win for all Minnesota producers.

Furthermore, the firm served over 220 Plaintiff Fact Sheets ("PFS") on Syngenta, and was in various stages of finalizing another 473 for service for cases in Minnesota alone. Johnson Dec. at 18. This work was significant. See Johnson Dec. 14–70. Preparing a PFS for submission involved ordering several sets of records, including Farm Service Agency ("FSA") records, grain and seed receipts, and insurance information. All records were then interpreted, PFS questions were drafted, verified by the client, and reviewed by an attorney. In total, Johnson Becker expended approximately 28,000 hours on PFS preparation and submissions for its Minnesota cases.[7] Johnson Dec. at 64.

B. Southern District of Illinois

Johnson Becker has 22 cases in the Southern District of Illinois, and was involved in the Tweet, et al. v. Syngenta AG et al. case, No. 3:16-cv-00255-DRH. Johnson Dec. at 6. As a part of this case, and in an effort to further the litigation, Johnson Becker attorneys attended and participated in Status Conferences, were involved in briefing regarding motions to dismiss and were involved in the discovery process, including reviewing multiple custodial files (totaling over 26,000 pages of documents) produced by Syngenta. Johnson Dec. at 113.

C. Williamson County Consolidation

Johnson Becker has 488 cases filed in front of Judge Bleyer in Illinois State Court in Williamson County. Johnson Dec. at 6. Working in conjunction with Lead Counsel in this consolidation, Johnson Becker filed some of the first cases in Williamson County. These cases were being worked up in anticipation of a PFS Order that was being negotiated prior to the [7] Minnesota Leadership asked for all time spent preparing PFSs for cases filed in Minnesota for consideration of possible reimbursement under the Minnesota Common Benefit Order ("Minnesota CBO"). To comply with Leadership's request, Johnson Becker submitted 28,184 hours, totaling $3,805,125.00 for time spent preparing PFSs in Minnesota. However, it is not clear whether these hours are ultimately going to be submitted or how they are going to be submitted by Minnesota Leadership. Johnson Becker wants to make the Court aware of this submission. Of course, Johnson Becker is not seeking a double recovery for any time spent preparing PFSs in Minnesota, if that submission is ultimately made and granted.

litigation being stayed. As part of that effort, Johnson Becker ordered and reviewed thousands of pages of records, including FSA, grain and seed receipts, and insurance information.

In addition, Johnson Becker was involved in the selection and workup of expert witnesses, attended and participated in Status Conferences, was involved in the briefing oppositions to motions to dismiss, and was involved in discovery and other issues, including meetings with Special Masters, Judge Daniel Stack and Ellen Reisman. Johnson Dec. 116.

D. District of Kansas MDL

Johnson Becker has not been significantly involved in the District of Kansas MDL. Instead, the Firm chose to file cases in jurisdictions where they had the opportunity to play a more active role in the prosecution of their clients' individual claims against Syngenta.

ARGUMENTS AND AUTHORITIES

The significant efforts of plaintiffs' lawyers across the United States, including Johnson Becker, contributed to the global settlement of claims against Syngenta that created a "common fund" of $1.51 billion dollars. This Court has broad authority over the award of attorneys' fees in this case. Law v. N.C.A.A., 4 Fed. Appx. 749, 751 (10th Cir. 2001). This authority is vested in the Court by Fed. R Civ. P. 23(h). Harlow v. Sprint Nextel Corp., No. 08-2222-KHV, 2018 WL 2568044, at *6 (D. Kan. June 4, 2018). Rule 23(h) also provides that any claim for an award must be made by a motion under Rule 54(d)(2). Importantly, the Tenth Circuit has recognized that it is appropriate to award attorneys' fees to non-designated counsel, where the non-designated counsel's work contributes to the creation of the common fund. Gottlieb v. Barry, 43 F.3d 474, 488 (10th Cir. 1994). Although it was not designated as class counsel, Johnson Becker's work contributed to the creation of the common fund. Its request for fees and reimbursement is reasonable under both the lodestar and percentage of the fund calculations. Therefore, the Court should grant Johnson Becker's Motion for fees and reimbursement.

I. Johnson Becker is Entitled to a Fee Award from the Common Fund Because its Work Advanced the Interests of All Plaintiffs

It has long been recognized that when counsel obtain a common fund settlement on behalf of a class, they are entitled to request reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses from the fund. Rosenbaum v. MacAllister, 64 F.3d 1439, 1444 (10th Cir. 1994) ("when a class action yields a fund for class members, fees may be paid from the recovery.") (citing Boeing Co. v. Van Gemert, 444 U.S. 472, 481 (1980)). The Tenth Circuit has explicitly recognized that, in class actions, awards for attorneys' fees and reimbursement from a common fund are not limited to court-appoint class counsel. Gottlieb, 43 F.3d at 488–89. In Gottlieb, the Tenth Circuit reversed the district court's denial of fees to non-designated counsel where the records indicated that the work of the non-designated counsel conferred a benefit upon the class. Id.

The fact that Syngenta was unwilling to settle class claims without including those individual farmers who opted out of the class is telling; Syngenta was clearly apprehensive about the idea of continuing to litigate individual lawsuits against producers who were actively prosecuting their claims. Syngenta's concerns were well-founded. This case is similar to the genetic rice contamination cases settled by Bayer AG in 2011. Bayer settled those cases for $750 million, but not before individual plaintiffs raked up enormous verdicts against it. See Andrew Harris and David Beasley, Bayer Will Pay $750 Million to Settle Gene-Modified Rice Suits, Bloomberg (July 1, 2011), Bayer ordered to pay $136.8 mln in U.S. rice case, Reuters (Mar. 21, 2011) (noting that the "award follows several others in U.S. courts where the agricultural biotech firm has repeatedly been found negligent for allowing a strain of genetically modified long grain rice to contaminate U.S. supplies, leading importers like the European Union, to halt purchases."). Syngenta was able to learn from Bayer's mistake of trying several individual lawsuits. The individual lawsuits in this litigation pressed this settlement upward and pushed forward the time to recovery for farmers.

Syngenta's unwillingness to settle class claims without including those farmers who exercised their right to pursue an individual case is underscored by the fact that two of the four members of the Settlement Committee, Clayton Clark and Mikal Watts, were not class-counsel, but instead represented individual farmers and were appointed to represent and negotiate on behalf of those lawyers who represented individual farmers and their clients. If the claims of individual farmers were not a significant driver in this settlement, there would have been no need to appoint an equal number of lawyers (to class counsel) representing individual producers to the Negotiation Committee. Of course, the final numbers are not yet in, but it seems more likely than not that more farmers who elected to pursue individual cases will ultimately participate in the settlement than farmers who decided to do nothing and wait for the results of a class resolution.

Also significant is the mere existence of a "Most Favored Nations" clause in the Settlement Agreement, which prohibits Syngenta from entering into a settlement with an individual farmer who exercised his or her right to opt-out of the settlement for one year after the effective date of the settlement on terms more favorable than the settlement. Again, the inclusion of this term speaks volumes about the pressure that individual lawsuits put on Syngenta and clearly underscores the simple fact that this case would never have resolved without the cooperation and inclusion of farmers who brought individual claims.

In short, there can be little doubt that the participation and inclusion of the claims of individual farmers in the settlement process was a significant driver to both the timing and the amount of the settlement. Johnson Becker applied its fair share of pressure on Syngenta by pursuing the claims of 3,257 individual litigants. This conferred a direct benefit on the entire class, not just Johnson Becker's clients.

II. Johnson Becker's Fee Request is Reasonable

In a common fund case, courts typically use either the "percentage of the fund" or "lodestar" method to calculate reasonable attorneys' fee award. See Rosenbaum, 64 F.3d at 1445. The Tenth Circuit has implied a preference for the percentage fund method in common fund cases. Id. (citing Gottlieb, 43 F.3d at 483). Regardless of the exact methodology used, the fee award must be reasonable. Gottlieb, 43 F.3d at 482, Uselton v. Commercial Lovelace Motor Freight, Inc., 9 F.3d 849, 853 (10th Cir. 1993). "There are recognized advantages and disadvantages with each method, although the more recent trend has been toward utilizing the percentage method in common fund cases." Brown v. Phillips Petro. Co., 838 F.2d 451, 483 (10th Cir. 1988). Recently, this Court has described its analysis as a "hybrid approach, which combines the percentage of the fee method with the specific factors traditionally used to calculate the lodestar." Harlow, 2018 WL 2568044, at *6; see Gottlieb, 43 F.3d at 483. The hybrid approach makes sense in this case, where the percent of the fund method may be difficult to apply across a large number of fee petitions. Irrespective of how this Court analyzes fee petitions in this case, Johnson Becker's request is reasonable under the unique facts of this case and the law of this District.

A. Johnson Becker's Contingency Fee Agreements

At the outset, it should be noted that Johnson Becker represented its individual clients on a contingency fee basis. In turn, it is requesting that its fee agreements (or a portion of the fee agreement) be enforced, so that the Firm receives the award that it reasonably anticipated it would collect from its clients' recoveries. That said, Johnson Becker believes that these fees should be paid from the common fund, and not a farmer's award, so that farmers who exercised their right to bring an individual case, accepted the risk of bringing an individual case and whose individual cases created pressure on Syngenta, are not treated differently than farmers who did not make the same contributions and accept the same risks as those who brought individual cases. Although the Court saw fit to place all producers back into a class for settlement purposes, Johnson Becker believes that a fee award based on an expected contingency fee is the most reasonable and fair way to distribute attorneys' fees to attorneys. [8]

Of course, it is impossible to determine the exact contingency fee award that Johnson Becker would have received under its contracts at this juncture. However, this amount can be easily calculated at the end of the Claims Deadline, when it will be known, with specificity, how many of Johnson Becker's clients participated in the settlement process.[9]

Until the Claims Deadline expires, for illustrative purposes, there is data available to the Court to help it make general estimates. The United Stated Department of Agriculture ("USDA") reported 87,451,000 corn acres were harvested for 2013.[10] Using USDA's 2013 statistics, and an available settlement fund of $1,457,000,000 (discounted for ethanol plants, landlords, and grain

[8] As noted in the Introduction, if the percentage of the settlement fund awarded as attorneys' fees is less than Johnson Becker's contingency fee agreements, Johnson Becker is not asking to receive more than the same percentage of the settlement fund than is set aside for attorneys' fees. For example, if one-third of the settlement fund is ultimately awarded as attorneys' fees, Johnson Becker believes that its contingency fees should also be reduced to one-third. Nor does Johnson Becker intend to "collect" the difference between amount this Court deems appropriate and the actual contingency fee percentage in their contracts. At a minimum, doing so would be fundamentally unfair to our clients who chose to pursue private litigation and raises serious ethical concerns. Instead, Johnson Becker is asking the Court to calculate a reasonable contingency fee percentage that reflects the considerable time, risk and expenses it committed to this case.

[9] Johnson Becker reserves the right to supplement this submission at the end of the Claims Deadline, when it is known how many of its individual farmers participated in the settlement.

[10] USDA Statistics available at https://www.nass.usda.gov/Statistics_by_Subject/result.php?22D644C3-2BB2-3E19-A2D3-2622679D6EE5&sector=CROPS&group=FIELD%20CROPS&comm=CORN.

handlers) each acre of harvested corn would be compensated at $16.66 under the settlement.[11] Johnson Becker's clients represent 1,221,395 acres of corn harvested for 2013. For purposes of this estimation, Johnson Becker rounded this acreage down to 1,220,000 acres harvested. The below table shows amount of the fee anticipated by Johnson Becker under scenarios with varying claim rates. The "claims rate" refers to the number of eligible producers who ultimately participate in the settlement. In other words, a 100% claims rate means that every farmer impacted by this case ultimately participates in the settlement.

Settlement Amount	Claims Rate	Number of Corn Acres Claimed (using 2013 Corn Harvested)	Amount of Recovery per Acre	Total Recovery to Johnson Becker Clients	Johnson Becker's Anticipated Fee (40%)
$1,457,000,000	100%	87,451,000	$16.66	$20,326,125.49	$8,130,450.19

This table shows that, if every single producer in the United States submitted a claim in this litigation, he or she would receive $16.66/acre, before attorneys' fees and expenses. Under this scenario, Johnson Becker anticipated a fee of roughly $8.13 million. Of course, history tells us that a claims rate of 100% will not occur. In fact, claims rates are typically significantly lower that 50%, as found by a 2009 study conducted by Mayer Brown LLP. Do Class Actions Benefit [11] 1,457,000000/87,451,000 = 16.66.

Class Members? An Empirical Analysis of Class Actions, INSTITUTE FOR LEGAL REFORM, https://www.instituteforlegalreform.com/uploads/sites/1/Class_Action_Study.pdf. In a study of class actions, where claim rate data was available, five out of six class actions results in claim rates between .000006% to 12%. Id. at 2. The lone outlier in this study—with a claims rate of nearly 100%—involved a relatively small number of claimants in a case related to the Madoff Ponzi scheme. Id. at 10. As one federal court has noted, claims-made settlements "regularly yield response rates of 10 percent or less." Sylvester v. CIGNA Corp., 369 F. Supp. 2d, 34, 52 (D. Me. 2005).

Johnson Becker firmly believes that the claim rate in this case will be significantly higher than the average historical rates contemplated by the Sylvester case and the Mayer Brown study. This confidence rests on the fact that this case is different from other class action because of the significant work done by Johnson Becker and other individual attorneys in prosecuting claims of individual farmers. For example, at the end of the Claims Deadline, Johnson Becker reasonably anticipates that its individual client claim rate will be close to 100%. This will not occur by chance or accident. Rather, the claim rates for our Clients is evidence of the long and laboring hours the firm's attorneys and staff spent corresponding with clients via phone, mail, and email to assist them in recouping their individual awards. Johnson Becker has developed relationships with its clients and will do the work necessary to ensure that every single one of its clients participates in the settlement and receives the award that he or she is entitled to.

It is premature at this point to guess as to what the claim rate will be in this case. However, Johnson Becker believes that the above chart should guide the Court in determining an appropriate fee award. This is because, when all is said done, this chart represents the recovery Johnson Becker anticipates obtaining for its clients and the fee award it would receive pursuant to the terms of its individual contracts. Using this chart, and assuming a scenario in which the claim rate in this case reaches a historically high rate between 60% to 80% of all producers, Johnson Becker's work will lead to our clients recovering between $25,000,000 and $34,000,000, which, in turn, corresponds to a fee of $10,000,000 to $13,600,000 based on its private contracts. Again, we recognize the Court will likely modify private contracts to correspond to the percentage it awards to create the common fund. We note the above amount, simply to underscore that the requested fee of $8,000,000 (which represents a 20% to 41.2% deduction off the private contract amount) is both an appropriate amount predicated on the recovery in this case, and equally important, is further supported by the roughly $6,400,000 in attorneys' fees the firm incurred to represent our clients and advance the litigation. In short, the fee request is eminently reasonable when viewed against the private contracts our clients executed and the work the firm performed to achieve the recovery. The Firm believes that this is a fair and conservative estimate of the amount it would have received under its private contracts, making this request reasonable.

B. The Johnson Factors

As noted above, Johnson Becker recognizes that the Court may not ultimately elect to enforce contingency fee agreements in this case. In that instance, as noted above, whether the Court applies the "percentage of the fund", "lodestar" or a hybrid method to calculate attorneys' fee awards, the Tenth Circuit utilizes the factors enumerated in Johnson v. Georgia Highway Express ("Johnson factors") to evaluate the reasonableness of a request for attorneys' fees. Rosenbaum, 64 F.3d at 1445. The twelve Johnson factors are: (1) the time and labor required; (2) the novelty and difficulty of the questions presented in the case; (3) the skill required; (4) the preclusion of other employment by the attorneys due to acceptance of the case; (5) the customary fee; (6) whether the fee is fixed or contingent; (7) any time limitations imposed by the client or the circumstances; (8) the amount involved and the results obtained; (9) the experience, reputation, and ability of the attorneys; (10) the "undesirability" of the case; (11) the nature and length of the professional relationship with the client; and (12) awards in similar cases. Id. at 1445, n. 3. Rarely are all twelve Johnson factors applicable—particularly in a common fund case. Uselton 9 F.3d at 854; Brown v. Phillips Petro. Co., 838 F.2d 451, 456 (10th Cir. 1988). Factors 7 and 10 are not relevant here. Under each of the relevant factors, as outlined below, Johnson Becker's fee request is appropriate.

i. Time and Labor Required

Factors one and four are related in this case and are addressed here in tandem. Johnson Becker attorneys and staff expended considerable hours on this case, surpassing 43,000 combined hours since 2015. See Exs. E & G. This factor is less influential in common fund cases, but "it is a relevant factor and the availability of contemporaneous time records enhances the trial court's ability to properly evaluate it." Brown, 838 F.2d at 456 n. 3. Johnson Becker attorneys and staff use database software to track their work and client interactions. A comprehensive breakdown of time and billing is attached in Exhibits E and G, but as a summary of those exhibits, Johnson Becker is requesting fees for 1,868.1 hours of attorney time and 42,109.8 hours of staff time expended on this litigation.

The hours that Johnson Becker attorneys and staff spent on this case covered many tasks, including client outreach and claim investigation, legal research, case work up, database management, case filing, discovery, PFS drafting, review, and submission, travel, hearings, and motion practice. The significant work completed by Johnson Becker positioned its clients in such a way that every claim was being prepared as if it would one day go to trial. Investigating and managing its clients and their legal claims in this manner took significant time, effort, and skill. This effort contributed to the significant recovery obtained on behalf of all plaintiffs in this case.

At the risk of stating the obvious, every hour expended on this case was an hour that wasn't spent on another matter. Counsel declined other opportunities in order to ensure that it could devote the large amount of time that these cases demanded. There should be no doubt that Johnson Becker expended considerable time and effort in pursuit of this case, and that time sunk into this case came with a high opportunity cost. It would be unequitable to permit that time to go uncompensated.

ii. Case Difficulty and Skill

Factors two (difficulty of case), three (skill required to perform the service) and nine (experience and reputation of the attorneys involved) are also intertwined. This case is highly complex. Procedurally, attorneys have navigated class actions involving state and federal law, multidistrict litigation, and remained up-to-date with the developments in the law of several jurisdictions. Johnson Becker represents producers from all across the country. To properly advise its clients, Johnson Becker attorneys became well-versed with several areas of the law, including class actions, intra-jurisdictional and cross-jurisdictional class action tolling, among others. The firm also remained abreast of the relevant substantive law of the numerous states where Johnson Becker clients live and farm. These included areas of various state common law torts, consumer fraud, and damages, among others.

At a substantive level, this case concerned global economics and the effect of foreign embargoes on domestic markets. To call the issues in this case complex is an understatement. The sheer number of hours expended by Johnson Becker, as well as other plaintiffs' counsel, signal the difficulty and complexities in this case. This Court has recognized that case complexity is evidenced by the number of hours counsel spends on the case. See Bailes, 2017 WL 4578927 at *4–5.

Johnson Becker was able to handle the complexities of this case because it has been litigating complex mass-tort and class action cases for several years. Specifically, attorney Michael Johnson has over 20 years of experience with most of that time dedicated to complex litigation. See Ex. A. Mr. Johnson has been appointed to leadership roles in several complex actions, including, among others, In re Sorin Heater-Cooler Prods. Liab. Litig. (MDL No. 2816), In re Incretin Memetics Prods. Liab. Litig., (MDL No. 2452), In re Mirena IUD Prods. Liab. Litig., (MDL No. 2434), and In re Sprint Fidelis Litig. (MDL No. 1905). Johnson Becker's experience, especially in the realm of complex litigation, weighs in favor of finding its fee request reasonable. See Bailes, 2017 WL 4758927 at *6.

iii. Amount Involved and Results Obtained

Factor eight (the amount recovered) is generally considered to be the most influential factor. See Bailes, 2017 WL 4758927 at *6. The Manual for Complex Litigation ("Manual") echoes this point, stating this "factor is given the greatest emphasis, because 'a common fund is itself the measure of success . . . represent[ing] the benchmark from which a reasonable fee will be awarded.'" MANUAL FOR COMPLEX LITIGATION, Fourth, § 14.121 (2004), See also Brown, 838 F.2d at 456 ("[A] decisive factor in this common fund class action case is the amount involved and the results obtained.").

By any measurement, the common fund recovered in this case—$1.51 billion—is significant. To be sure, Johnson Becker is not suggesting that the case would not have settled without the threat of individual lawsuits. However, the large number of individual lawsuits from producers who chose to opt-out of the class and the vigorous prosecution of those lawsuits by firms including Johnson Becker was instrumental in the settlement amount being pushed upwards. While individual recoveries are not yet known, the above-referenced chart, establishes that Johnson Becker's clients will collectively recover somewhere between $25,000,000 (80% participation rate) to $34,000,000 (60% participation rate). In short, as a result of the Firm's work—including the daily and detailed assistance it provides with the claims process—our Clients will have the opportunity to realize a meaningful recovery in this case. Irrespective of what our individual clients receive, it is undeniable that the dual pressure from class counsel and private counsel, drove Syngenta to settle this case.

iv. Relationship with Clients

The eleventh factor (nature and length of relationship with clients) is relevant here and should be given considerable weight. Unlike with class members and their attorneys, Johnson Becker has an ongoing relationship with every client that it represents. As noted above, the firm collectively expended more than 48,000 hours (including staff and attorney time for which fees are not being sought) representing its individual clients. This has involved hours spend on the phone, mailings with case updates and settlement information, and postcards on holidays. See Generally, Johnson Dec. Throughout the course of this litigation, Johnson Becker attorneys and staff have prepared and filed client's cases, engaged in discovery on their behalf, explained their legal rights and guided their decisions—including the right to opt-out of a class action—and have kept them apprised on the status of the case as it progressed into settlement. Johnson Becker continues to work, each and every day, to help clients complete claim forms and to get those forms submitted.

v. Customary and Similar Fees

Factors five (customary fee), six (fixed or contingent fee), and twelve (awards in similar cases) are related, and provide some guidance in this case. This factor is discussed at length above in the contingency fee section. "The percentage of the recovery agreed to is helpful in demonstrating the attorney's fee expectations when he accepted the case." Johnson, 488 F.2d at 718. Here, Johnson Becker is simply requesting the fee that what it was anticipating under its own agreements. This factor therefore shows further evidence that Johnson Becker's fee request is reasonable.

C. Lodestar Crosscheck

Courts across the Tenth Circuit, including this district, regularly calculate a fee award under the lodestar method as a "crosscheck" on the reasonableness of the fee request. See Cox v. Sprint Commc'ns Co. L.P., No. 6:10-cv-01262-KGG, 2012 WL 5512381 at *3 (D. Kan. Nov. 14, 2012), Campbell v. C.R. England, Inc., No. 2:13-cv-00262, 2015 WL 5773709 at *7 n. 5 (D. Utah Sept. 20, 2015) (using use of lodestar crosscheck to determine if the multiplier is within reasonable range). As part of its analysis, the Court must "'determine what lawyers of comparable skill and experience practicing in the area in which the litigation occurs would charge for their time.'" Case v. Unified School Dist. No. 233, Johnson Cty., Kan., 157 F.3d 1243, 1256 (10th Cir. 1998) (quoting Ramos v. Lamm, 713 F.2d 546, 555 (10th Cir. 1983).

First, Johnson Becker's hourly rates are appropriate because they are in-line with rates that this Court has approved in other complex cases. See Bailes 2017 WL 4758927 at *8 (noting that the Court recently found experienced attorney rates between $400 to $600 to be reasonable in an FLSA collective action). Second, Johnson Becker's hours expended on this case are fair and reasonable because each hour spend on this case was done in a calculated manner that helped advance the individual client's claim and the broader litigation. See Barbosa v. Nat'l Beef Packaging Co., LLC, No. 12-2311-KHV, 2015 WL 4920292, at *8 (D. Kan Aug. 18, 2015). Johnson Becker's lodestar and expense request is summarized in the table below:

Attorneys' Fees
Common-Benefit Fees	$394,602.50
Client-Specific Fees	$6,047,425.00
Total Fee Request:	$6,442,027.50
Expenses
Common-Benefit Expenses	$12,460.44
Client-Specific Expenses – Filing and Service Costs	$107,558.47
Client-Specific Expenses – Seed and Grain Records Costs	$8,475.79
Client-Specific Expenses – Opt-Out Related Mailing and Shipping Costs	$9,636.24
Total Expense Request:	$138,130.94

Here, the requested fee is appropriate based on two factors. First, it represents a significant departure from the contingency fee agreements our clients executed (approximately 20% to 41.2%). Second, it represents a nominal multiplier of 1.25 times the actual lodestar Johnson Becker incurred in this case. It is common for courts in the Tenth Circuit to apply lodestar multipliers. See, e.g., Campbell 2015 WL 5773709 at *7 n. 5 (stating that a multiplier of 2.9 is within a reasonable range), In re Oppenheimer Champion Income Fund Sec. Fraud Class Action, No. 09-cv-386-JLK-KMT, 2011 WL 13217584 at *2 (D. Colo Sept. 30, 2011) (finding a multiplier of 4.6 to be fair and reasonable), In re Core Bond Fund, No. 09-cv-1186-JLK-KMT, 2011 WL 13223541, at *1–2 (D. Colo. Sept. 30, 2011) (4.2 multiplier), Vizcaino v. Microsoft Corp., 290 F.3d 1043, 1051 (9th Cir. 2002) (3.65 multiplier), In re UnitedHelath Group Inc. PSLRA Litig., 643 F. Supp. 2d 1094 at 1106 (D. Minn. Aug. 11, 2009) (multiplier of nearly 6.5). The hours and rates submitted by Johnson Becker are fair and accurate, and regardless of how this Court ultimately determines Johnson Becker's fee, the nominal multiplier of 1.25 times is reasonable when factored against the contract contingency fee, the Johnson factors, and lodestar incurred to represent our clients and advance the litigation as a whole. This is well within the normal range applied by this District and the Tenth Circuit, and is further evidence that Johnson Becker's fee request is reasonable.

Finally, Johnson Becker conducted its own internal cross-check of staff time expended on this litigation in order to ensure accuracy in this submission. See Johnson Becker Staff Time Audit, attached as Ex. B. This audit involved a multi-step process. First, Johnson Becker identified all staff, current and former, full-time and part-time, who expended hours on the Syngenta litigation. Second, Johnson Becker calculated the number of workdays (excluding holidays and weekends) that each employee worked at Johnson Becker. Third, Johnson Becker calculated the number of workdays that each employee worked specifically on this litigation by using the percentage of time that each employee was instructed to work on this litigation.[12] Finally, each employee's number of work days was multiplied by eight (number of hours worked in a given day).

The results of this audit support Johnson Becker's fee request. The Firm found that, since devoting staff to this litigation in June of 2015, Johnson Becker staff (not including attorneys) have expended 45,214 hours of work on the Syngenta litigation. Of this time, 8,783 hours were expended by paralegals, and 36,431 hours were worked by legal assistants. As noted in Mr.

[12] For example, an employee with 120 total workdays at Johnson Becker with an assignment of 50% of their time to Syngenta was counted as having 60 days devoted to this litigation.

Johnson's Declaration, the tasks performed by paralegals and legal assistants were substantive and largely identical. For example, each assisted clients with the completion of the initial complaint, the initial PFSs, relevant discovery and the claims submission process. Johnson Dec. at., for example, 9, 42–43. Further, each routinely engaged in para-professional activity, communicating with clients on a daily basis directly related to tasks that advanced our individual client's claims. Johnson Becker's request for reimbursement of 42,109.8 hours (comprised of 8,092.85 hours of paralegal time, 32,844.15 hours of legal assistant time, and 1,172.8 hours of "blended time" billed at the legal assistant rate) accounts for 93%[13] of the total time invested in this case by all Johnson Becker staff, and further evidences the reasonableness of the Firm's request for fees. See Exs. B and G.

III. Johnson Becker's Expenses are Reasonable and Should be Reimbursed

Johnson Becker seeks approval of out-of-pocket litigation expenses in the amount of $138,130.94. See Johnson Dec. at 12. Of this amount, $12,460.44 represent expenses attributed to the Common Benefit of all cases, and $125,670.50 in Johnson Becker client-specific costs. This amount covers expenses actually incurred and does not seek future expenses. Johnson Becker will continue to incur expenses to assist its clients with the submission of their claim forms and will not seek reimbursement for these expenses. Like requests for fees, Rule 23(h) authorizes attorneys to seek nontaxable costs that it incurred. "As with attorneys' fees, an attorney who create or preserves a common fund for the benefit of a class is entitled to receive reimbursement of all reasonable costs incurred." Vaszlavik v. Storage Corp., No. 95-B-2525, 2000 WL 1268824, at *4 (D. Colo. Mar. 9, 2000).

[13] In other words, Johnson Becker did not submit over 3,000 staff hours that were incurred in the Syngenta litigation as part of this submission.

The costs incurred by Johnson Becker included opt-out related client mailings and communications, filing fees, common-benefit related travel expenditures, and FSA, grain, and seed record costs. Johnson Becker limits its request for reimbursement to the reasonable costs that were necessary to effectively investigate and litigate its clients claims. Courts routinely approve expenses incurred during the prosecution of complex cases. See, e.g., Bailes, 2017 WL 4758927 at *9 (awarding costs incurred in the prosecution of class claims). The costs sought here by Johnson Becker were necessary for the effective the prosecution of this litigation. For this reason, Johnson Becker respectfully asks the Court to reimburse those costs.

CONCLUSION

For the above reasons, Johnson Becker respectfully requests that this Court enter an Order directing an Award for attorneys' fees and expenses from the settlement fund to Johnson Becker, PLLC in the amount of $8,000,000 and $138,130.94 in expenses, and for any and other such relief as this Court deems applicable.

DECLARATION OF MICHAEL K. JOHNSON

I, Michael K. Johnson, declare and state as follows:

1. I am a founding partner of the law firm Johnson Becker, PLLC ("Johnson Becker" or "Firm"). Attached hereto as Exhibit A is my Curriculum Vitae which summarizes my background and experience. I am an adult over 18 years of age and if called upon as a witness, I would testify to the matters set forth herein.

2. During all relevant time periods, I was the supervising partner in charge of the Syngenta litigation in our Firm. In turn, I have direct knowledge of the facts set forth herein. Based on my personal knowledge, and my review of the relevant records in this matter, which were maintained in the course of my Firm's regular business practices, I submit this declaration in support of Johnson Becker's Motion for Award of Attorneys' Fees and Reimbursement of Litigation Expenses.

3. As part of my role as the supervising partner in charge of the Syngenta Litigation, I have overseen the work of over 35 individuals, including Attorneys, Paralegals, and Legal Assistants who have worked on the Syngenta litigation at one time or another. Attached hereto as Exhibit B is a list of the Paralegals and Legal Assistants who have worked on the Syngenta litigation, and the approximate number of hours that each one spent on the Syngenta litigation.

4. My firm has acted as counsel for corn producers in this litigation on a contingent basis. Specifically, Johnson Becker currently represents 3,257 clients in the Syngenta litigation, including farmers/producers and landlords. These 3,257 clients elected to opt-out of the national and/or their respective state class actions.

5. Using data from 2013, these clients represent approximately 1,221,395 acres of corn. Attached hereto as Exhibit C is a list of the clients that Johnson Becker represents in the Syngenta litigation and the percentage of their fee agreement with Johnson Becker. In addition, attached hereto as Exhibit D is an exemplar of a Johnson Becker Retainer Agreement used by the Firm in the Syngenta litigation. This application for an award of attorney's fees and expenses is also made on behalf of any co-counsel listed on Johnson Becker's Retainer Agreements. In turn, there will not be any additional filings made by any other firms listed on Johnson Becker's Retainer Agreements for additional fees and/or costs.

6. Of the 3,257 clients that Johnson Becker represents in the Syngenta litigation, the Firm filed 1,352 cases in various Minnesota State Court(s) (many of these cases were filed before the Minnesota cases were consolidated by the Minnesota Supreme Court in Hennepin County), it filed 22 cases in the Southern District of Illinois, and it filed 488 cases in Williamson County, Illinois. In addition, Johnson Becker represents 1,395 unfiled cases in states with a statute of limitations of four years or longer that it was preparing to file in either Minnesota or Illinois State Court, before the four-year statute of limitations and before the Courts issued a stay in these matters.

7. In addition to the work that Johnson Becker performed on behalf of its individual clients, which advanced, and ultimately was a key factor (the inclusion of opted out, individually represented producers in the settlement) in the settlement of this litigation, Johnson Becker performed work, as set forth in Johnson Becker's Motion for Award of Attorneys' Fees and Reimbursement of Litigation Expenses, that benefitted the entire Syngenta litigation. Attached here to as Exhibit E is a Billing Chart for all Common-Benefit Time and Exhibit F is a Common Benefit Expense Chart and Receipts;

8. Johnson Becker uses database software that allows an employee to log their work for activities including client communication, records management, litigation and discovery events, and others. This database was utilized throughout this litigation. Johnson Becker also maintains a separate accounting system for client and common benefit expenses that was utilized throughout this litigation.

9. In general, and when feasible, assignments were tasked to staff members in a manner that accomplished tasks at the lowest billing rate. Occasionally, due to time and/or labor constraints, assignments were completed by both Legal Assistants and Paralegals. Because it was difficult to parse out this time, and out of an abundance of caution, time for all staff involved in these projects was billed at the rate of the lowest common denominator.

10. Attached hereto as Exhibit G is a Billing Chart for all client specific time. In addition, attached hereto as Exhibit H is a Client Specific Costs and Receipts Chart – Filing and Service Fees, which details the filing fees Johnson Becker incurred in filing its individual clients' cases; Exhibit I is Client Specific Costs and Receipts Chart – Opt-Out related mailings that detail the expenses incurred by Johnson Becker to assist its clients' with complying with the National and Minnesota Class opt-out provisions; and, Exhibit J is Client Specific Costs and Receipts Chart – Grain and Seed record costs that details the expenses that Johnson Becker incurred in ordering our clients' grain and seed records to prepare their cases for litigation and as part of the Plaintiff Fact Sheet requirements in the Syngenta Litigation.

11. In summary, attached to this Declaration are true and correct copies of the following:

a. Exhibit A; Curriculum Vitae of Michael K. Johnson;

b. Exhibit B; Chart of Johnson Becker Paralegals and Legal Assistants time expended on this litigation.

13. The purpose of the remainder of this Declaration is to describe in detail the actions that Johnson Becker took on behalf of its opted-out, individual clients in this litigation, the litigation in general and to explain the methods used to calculate time expended on these clients.

I. Plaintiff Fact Sheet Work

14. Plaintiff Fact Sheets (PFSs) were issued in Minnesota on January 11, 2016.

15. Johnson Becker used internal database entries and records documenting the work that it spent completing PFSs on behalf of each of the firm's clients.

16. Johnson Becker represents 1,346 filed cases in Minnesota State Court. This includes 89 Dual Representation cases that other firms have filed where the clients wish to remain with Johnson Becker.

17. Of these cases, over 220 PFSs were served on Syngenta.

18. In addition, 473 Minnesota clients PFS were in the preparation and/or review stage, in preparation to be filed in Minnesota State Court.

19. Johnson Becker also began ordering seed, grain and insurance records and reviewing those records in preparation for PFS submissions in Illinois State Court.

20. In total, Johnson Becker submitted or prepared to submit over 2300 PFSs.

21. The Minnesota PFS required four types of documents to be submitted. The first document required was "documents sufficient to show the corn seed purchased from 2011 to the present." Johnson Becker asked each client to provide seed receipts. The second document required was "documents sufficient to show all terms and conditions for all of your sales or contracts for sale of corn after and including 2011 to the present". Johnson Becker asked clients to submit grain receipts and contracts for these years. The third document required was "Documents sufficient to show any cost you believe you have incurred or injury you believe you have suffered as a result of the presence of Viptera or Duracade in corn". Johnson Becker asked clients to provide Farm Service Agency (FSA) Form 578: Producer Prints. If a client did not have that document, and they were a landlord, they were asked to provide a copy of their lease agreement showing they suffered a loss as a result of the drop in the corn market. The fourth document was "documents for crop insurance related to corn for the 2013 and 2014 crop years". Johnson Becker asked clients to provide crop insurance summary sheets and any claim information.

22. Johnson Becker offered all of its clients the option to fill out authorizations and have Johnson Becker order the records on their behalf.

23. Attorney David Grounds, the Syngenta lead Legal Assistant, Chelsea Reinartz, along with other staff members, traveled to the Dakota County Farm Service Agency office to learn what information would be most beneficial for ensuring compliance with PFSs. The FSA

Office explained what each FSA form tracks, and provided a blank authorization form to copy and send to clients.

24. The same group of people identified in the paragraph above also met with a crop insurance agency in order to learn what information would be most beneficial to keep track of, and how the forms could differ by different providers.

25. Johnson Becker then compared what we learned from the FSA office and the crop insurance agent against the PFS to ensure records were interpreted in the most efficient way possible.

26. Johnson Becker IT staff collaborated with other staff to create internal database protocols that promoted the fastest, and most accurate, procedure for ordering all records and completing a PFS.

27. If a client provided an authorization for any type of record, Johnson Becker contacted the client's provider on behalf of the client. In most instances, the firm sent authorizations for all records and clients would return what forms they had in addition to complete authorizations with the instruction to order the remaining records. Johnson Becker verified all of the producer-supplied information, and recorded every provider's information in Johnson Becker's internal database to promote efficiency.

28. For the first document required, Johnson Becker asked seed providers to provide seed receipts specifying seed type/variety and amount purchased for 2011 to the present.

29. For the second document, Johnson Becker asked grain receipt providers to provide Grain Year End Summary Sheets and Grain Contracts.

30. For the third document, Johnson Becker asked FSA offices to provide FSA Form 578 and any and all owner/operator lease agreements for 2011 to the present.

31. For the fourth document, Johnson Becker asked crop insurance providers to provide Claim Summary Information, Coverage Type(s), and Annual/Actual Production History (APH) Reports.

32. For clients who provided records, the records were checked for completeness. Any records that we deemed deficient were re-ordered.

33. All records were checked against the provider information the client supplied.

34. All records received via the client or Firm records requests were saved physically and electronically.

35. All records were interpreted as a means of compiling and storing individual client's FSA, seed, grain, and insurance information.

36. Johnson Becker transcribed the information required to complete the PFS from the various records into the Firm's internal database.

37. Interpreting FSA forms was the most time-intensive portion involved in completing the PFS. The PFS did not require FSA forms to be submitted, but did require information from the FSA Forms. To ease the burden on the client, and to ensure accuracy, Johnson Becker ordered FSA Form 578 for its clients and completed that section of the PFS when feasible.

38. Because corn seed variety was also required to be identified on the PFS, the individual seed varieties were compared against product catalogues (dealer marketing info, etc.) to determine if they were Syngenta seeds containing the Viptera or Duracade traits.[1]

39. Organizing and interpreting grain receipts presented significant difficulty due to their high volume and lack of consistency.

[1] Most of Johnson Becker's clients were unable to list what seed variety corresponded to each FSA Farm number, which required staff to list every seed variety individually.

40. Johnson Becker divided clients into different categories for time and expense based on the work described above. Based on the percentage of completeness of an individual client's PFS, he or she was assigned to one of six categories, with "Category One" being the most complete, and "Category Seven" being the least complete.

41. Category One involved 11-15 hours of work from a Paralegal and 19-25 hours of work from a Legal Assistant.

42. The Paralegal's description for this category is "Complete as of date of PFS submission, or ready to submit and waiting to send to attorney for approval. Ordering records (grain, seed, FSA forms, insurance), following up with client/provider on status of records, ordering additional years as needed to supplement submitted PFS."

43. The Legal Assistant's description for this category is "Interpreting records (grain, seed, FSA Forms, insurance), filling out PFS from client answers/records, submitting PFS, confirming final with client, supplementing as needed. Heavy client contact."

44. In an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed 8 hours of work from a Paralegal and 23.5 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

45. Category Two involved 9-10 hours of work from a Paralegal and 16-20 hours of work from a Legal Assistant.

46. The Paralegal's description for this category is "Ordering records (grain, seed, FSA forms, insurance), following up with client/provider on status of records, a lot of provider follow up to ensure complete records. ¾ complete, only missing one record all years or one year for all records. Minimal work required to submit."

47. The Legal Assistant's description for this category is "Interpreting (grain, seed, FSA forms, insurance), review and revise as needed, almost ready to file, some follow up needed. A lot of client contact was involved. Coordinate with Paralegal for missing records."

48. In an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed 4.5 hours of work from a Paralegal and 19.5 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

49. Category Three involved 7-10 hours of work from a Paralegal and 13-15 hours of work from a Legal Assistant.

50. The Paralegal's description for this category is "Ordering records (grain, seed, FSA Forms, insurance), at least 2 records for full years have been received if interpreted, if not interpreted ¾ records have been received, follow up with providers for remaining records, and follow up with clients for missing providers."

51. The Legal Assistant's description for this category is "Interpreting (grain, seed, FSA Forms, insurance), review and revise as needed, coordinate with Paralegals for remaining records."

52. In an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed 4.5 hours of work from a Paralegal and 14.5 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

53. Category Four involved 5-7.5 hours of work from a Paralegal and 7-12.5 of work hours from a Legal Assistant.

54. The Paralegal's description for this category is "Ensure complete authorization packet received, order initial set of records, at least one record for all years has been received and interpreted or two records received but not interpreted."

55. The Legal Assistant's description for this category is "Interpret records, ensure complete authorization packet received, send physical copy of PFS to client or fill out over the phone. Heavy follow up for PFS answers and complete set of providers for records."

56. In an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed 2 hours of work from a Paralegal and 11.5 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

57. Category Five involved 5-6 hours of work from a Paralegal and another 5-6 hours of work from Legal Assistant.

58. The Paralegal's description for this category is "Ordering records, following up with client/provider on status of records, a lot of provider follow up when provider not responding. All known providers have been requested and at least one record has been received."

59. The Legal Assistant's description for this category is "Interpreting any received records, review and revise as needed, inform client will be sending PFS and prepare document internally. Check client provided records for completeness."

60. In an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed 2 hours of work from a Paralegal and 6.5 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

61. Category Six involved 4 hours of work from a Paralegal and another 4 hours of work Legal Assistant.

62. The description is the same for both the Paralegal and the Legal Assistant: "Attempted client contact to receive complete set of authorizations. Multiple attempts to mail client authorizations to fill out. Multiple voicemails left."

63. In an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed .5 hours of work from a Paralegal and 1 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

64. In total, this work required over 28,000 hours of time conducted by various employees.

65. After Johnson Becker submitted the reimbursement request in Minnesota, the firm calculated time spent on the cases that were not filed, or filed in Illinois federal or state court.

66. For that this time estimate, Johnson Becker created a Category Seven, involved 4 hours of work from a Paralegal and 4 hours of work from a Legal Assistant.

67. The Paralegal's description for this category is "Analyze records that would be required for PFS. Determine the authorizations necessary to support claim and to gather appropriate records."

68. The Legal Assistant's description for this category is "Process authorizations received from client. Order and receive FSA records in preparation for PFS."

69. Again, in an effort to be conservative, for purposes of its client specific time submission, Johnson Becker claimed 1 hour of work from a Paralegal and 3 hours of work from a Legal Assistant for this Category.

70. In all, Johnson Becker expended 11,249.5 hours on preparing for expected PFS work for cases that were filed in jurisdictions outside of Minnesota, or that were not yet filed.

II. Intake Time

71. When deciding to pursue the Syngenta litigation initially, Johnson Becker assigned three Legal Assistants to monitor incoming client inquiries.

72. At the outset of this litigation, I underwent several multi-day road-trip across Minnesota to meet with producers and other potential clients. During this time, I spoke to hundreds of farmers and answered basic factual questions about this litigation and the potential claims involved.

73. Johnson Becker also maintained phone lines dedicated to inquiries related to the case during the pendency of the litigation.

74. Johnson Becker was able to estimate the amount of time spent on each new case inquiry based on contemporaneous call note entries made by staff. This time, on average, was approximately ten minutes per client. This amount was rounded down to .1 hours for Lodestar calculations.

75. Many cases required significantly more time spent by a Legal Assistant, but Johnson Becker chose to use the low estimate to calculate this time.

III. Litigation Department

76. After an attorney reviewed each complete client inquiry, and decided to keep the case, Johnson Becker staff opened the file in the Litigation Department.

77. Opening a file involved tasks such as verifying client information, entering client information into the database, and opening a physical file. Every file was verified again by another Legal Assistant after it was opened.

78. The description for this category was “Open file internally, double check client provided information, create physical file, send letter confirming representation, prepare case to order records”.

79. Once a case was opened, Johnson Becker prepared to order all records. After client feedback, the Firm determined it would be more productive to send authorizations to every client and have them return authorizations in addition to any records they sent.

80. Within the Johnson Becker internal database, each client was assigned a database number. Within that number we have a multitude of categories to keep track of which tasks have been performed for each client. The tasks described above either do not have one specific entry, or any entry beyond a complete date.

81. For the tasks described in this section, Johnson Becker utilized individual database entries to determine the exact task conducted for each client.

82. Each client received an "Entity Phone Call" to ensure we represented the appropriate entity to ensure each client's maximum potential recovery. These calls typically lasted between 5 and 12 minutes. This time was rounded down to .1 hours for Johnson Becker's Lodestar calculation.

IV. Client Update Letters

83. Johnson Becker's firm policy is to update all clients on the status of the litigation approximately every three months.

84. These were sent as Client Mass Letters, and were divided into four categories: "Client Mass Letter-General Litigation Update", "Client Mass Letter-Opt-Out", "Client Mass Letter-Settlement Update" and "Client Mass Letter-Claim Form."

85. For every Client Mass Letter, Johnson Becker had between four and six employees working on the letter. Typically, Client Mass Letters have taken about four and one-half days to complete from start to finish, including time spent printing and stuffing envelopes. This time has been estimated as approximately 6 minutes per client, but was rounded down to .05 hours per client for Lodestar calculation to ensure the most conservative time estimate.

86. Additional firm employees would often assist with Client Mass Letters. This time has not been accounted for as it ranged greatly from less than one hour to multiple hours over several days. Johnson Becker did not keep a list of every firm employee who assisted with Client Mass Letters. However, Chelsea Reinartz worked on every Client Mass Letter so only her name is listed for this category. In addition, this is billed at a Legal Assistant rate even though many Paralegals assisted on these letters.

V. Mail Received and Mail Sent

87. When Johnson Becker received or sent mail, faxes, or e-mails outside of any of the time listed above we created a separate entry and referred to as "Mail Sent" or "Mail Received".

88. Within that description, three categories were created and all time averaged 4-7 minutes, and was rounded to .05 hours per client.

89. Clients often send notes or other miscellaneous items about the litigation. In addition, they often e-mail asking for updates on the litigation outside of the Client Mass Letters. These were referred to as "Mail Received-Miscellaneous".

90. Johnson Becker's responses to clients regarding these items were categorized as "Mail Sent-Miscellaneous".

91. During the Opt-Out period for both the MDL and Minnesota, Johnson Becker categorized the mail received Opt-Outs as "Mail Received-Opt-Outs". Johnson Becker received and submitted opt out forms for 3,257 clients. Near the end of the opt-out periods, as a result of the client wet ink requirement, Johnson Becker utilized a notary serve to reach clients in their homes who were unable to deliver their mail to a post office.

92. If needed, staff sent a new Opt-Out form or letter requesting information on the Opt-Out form, which is labeled as "Mail Sent-Opt-Out".

93. As of July 10th, we have received 1,595 Claim Forms. These are categorized as "Mail Received-Claim Form". By the Claims Deadline, we reasonably anticipate that Johnson Becker's client participation rate will near 100%. We attribute this high claims rate to the fact that several producers have utilized us to answer basic questions about the process, because they often do not read or are not aware of the class notice, or are wary of or unable to use a computer to complete the form electronically.

VI. Phone Calls and Voice Messages

94. Johnson Becker categorized the types of phone calls and voice messages we placed and received. The firm made itself available to answer client's questions throughout this litigation, and continues this commitment today. Johnson Becker's firm policy required staff and/or attorneys to return a client's call within 24 hours.

95. Phone calls or voice messages relating to the Opt-Out are categorized as "Phone Call-Opt-Out" and "Voice Message-Opt-Out". Johnson Becker attorneys and staff called over 3300 clients to inform them of their rights and obligations with respect to opting-out of the class action. Ultimately, about 10% of Johnson Becker's clients decided not to opt-out of their respective class actions. Those former clients are not counted towards Johnson Becker's current client total.

96. Phone calls or voice messages relating to Claim Forms are categorized as "Phone Call-Claim Form" and "Voice Message-Claim Form".

97. Any other phone calls not related to time described above are categorized as "Phone Call-Miscellaneous" and "Voice Message-Miscellaneous".

98. The length of phone calls varies greatly, but typically ranges between 4 and 15 minutes, depending on the farmer's question. With each case staff members attempt to review the entire file and resolve any questions to minimize the amount of calls a farmer will receive. For consistency, and accuracy, all phone calls conducted by staff members were rounded to .1 hours per call. Again, Johnson Becker believes this to be a conservative estimate.

99. Voice messages times ranged depending on the length of the message and the action required after the message. Johnson Becker rounded all voice messages to .1 hours per voice message.

VII. Potential Dual Representation

100. Dual representation (a client being involved with two or more different law firms) occasionally occurs in this case. Each Johnson Becker case was evaluated for potential dual representation. When it was discovered that another firm potentially represented a client, Johnson Becker contacted the client to investigate the issue.

101. In every instance, Johnson Becker emphasized that the client has a choice of who they remain represented by. Johnson Becker answered the client's questions and informed the client that they were not obligated to proceed with Johnson Becker.

102. In instances where the client chose to remain with another law firm, the case was immediately closed. The time spent on these individuals is not listed in the Johnson Becker's time submission.

103. In instances where the client wished to remain with Johnson Becker, the Firm worked to prepare a Motion for Substitution of Counsel. Johnson Becker had 89 dual representation clients who decided to pursue their claims through Johnson Becker.

104. For time keeping purposes, in instances were Johnsen Becker filed a Substitution of Counsel, the cases were categorized as "Investigate potential Dual Representation, coordinate with other law firm, prepare and file Substitution of Counsel". In instances where Johnson Becker notified the other counsel of the dual representation situation, yet was unable to file the Substitution of Counsel for various reasons, the case was categorized as "Investigate potential Dual Representation, notify other law firm, prepare Substitution of Counsel".

105. Both Paralegals and Legal Assistants aided clients with Substitution of Counsel issues. The time required for evaluating Substitution of Counsel issues varied from 15 minutes to over an hour, depending on how many questions a client had. This was conservatively rounded to .2.

106. If a client was not a Dual Representation case, the time spent evaluating that was not included in the Firm estimate.

VIII. Preparation and Filing of Complaints

107. Johnson Becker represents 1,352 clients with cases that were served/filed in Minnesota. For complaints filed in Minnesota, Johnson Becker calculated the total time spend preparing, reviewing, filing, and serving Complaints, and divided this time evenly among all clients filed in Minnesota. This came to slightly over .1 hours per client, which Johnson Becker rounded down to .1 hours. This event is categorized in the client-specific spreadsheet as "Prepare and file complaint, send for service, save documents in JB database".

108. Johnson Becker represents 488 clients with lawsuits filed in Williamson County, Illinois, and 22 clients with lawsuits filed in the Southern District of Illinois.

109. For complaints filed in either Illinois state court or Illinois federal court, we categorized them as "Prepare complaint and send to local counsel to file/serve, save documents in JB database". Again, this time was categorized conservatively at .1 hours per client.

IX. Work Conducted Throughout this Litigation

110. Johnson Becker spent considerable amounts of time conducting legal research on behalf of its clients (and, in some instances, for the benefit of the broader litigation), as it documented Exhibits G and E. By way of example, this research included, but is not limited to, research involving statute of limitations for several states, cross-jurisdictional and intra-jurisdictional class action tolling, class actions, class notice, economic loss, the law of duty and negligence, consumer fraud statutes, as well as a multitude of procedural issues.

111. Johnson Becker also engaged in motion practice throughout the course of this litigation. By way of example, this work included an opposition to class certification and a motion asking the Court in Minnesota to require that class notice be sent to all producers, and seeking to strike the requirement that producers provide an SSN/TIN in order to opt-out of the class.

112. Johnson Becker's motion regarding class notice in Minnesota was successful in convincing the Court to strike the requirement that producer's must provide sensitive SSN/TIN information solely for the purposes of opting-out of the class.

113. As part of the litigation in the Sothern district of Illinois, Johnson Becker attorneys conducted document review of several Syngenta employee files, totaling about 26,000 pages of review.

114. Johnson Becker sought the opinion of a leader in legal ethics regarding potential conflicts and ethical concerns arising from the Joint Prosecution Agreement and Minnesota Joint Prosecution Agreement. This opinion guided many of the Firm's decisions early in the litigation.

115. I also worked with Co-Lead Counsel, with the aid of Special Master Van de North, to negotiate the terms of the Common Benefit Order for Minnesota.

116. As part of the Williamson County consolidation, I attended and participated in status conferences, and was involved in briefing regarding oppositions to motions to dismiss. I was also involved in discovery and other issues, which included meetings with Special Masters Stack and Reisman.

117. In Minnesota, Johnson Becker was the first firm to ask the Minnesota Supreme Court to consolidate cases into a single jurisdiction.

118. The above is intended to capture of cross-section of the legal work expended by Johnson Becker in this case for illustrative purposes; it is not intended to represent a comprehensive cataloguing of the work completed by Johnson Becker. For a thorough documentation of the work completed by Johnson Becker as it related to this case and this Motion, please see Exhibits E and G.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

CURRICULUM VITAE

Michael K. Johnson is a founding partner of Johnson Becker, PLLC. Michael exclusively handles plaintiffs' personal injury cases, with an emphasis on national products liability litigation, and a sharp focus on medical device and pharmaceutical litigation. He currently represents individuals throughout the country in claims involving defective medical devices, harmful pharmaceuticals, over-the-counter products, nutritional supplements, and other dangerous and defective products. Michael currently serves as the Co-Chair of the Products Liability Section of the Minnesota Association of Justice. Nationally, he is involved in numerous mass tort litigations representing injured individuals. He has participated in the resolution of global settlements in product liability litigations and has sat on leadership committees in a variety of mass tort litigations.

Michael has battled major corporations in the courtroom, appellate courts, and up to the U.S. Supreme Court. He believes that corporations that choose to put profits before safety need to be held accountable. As a result of his dedication to his clients and their cases, Michael was selected as an Attorney of the Year by Minnesota Lawyer in 2009. In addition, in 2012 Michael was awarded the Stephen J. Sharpe Public Service Award by the American Association for Justice. The Award is presented annually to an attorney and their client whose case tells the story of American civil justice and helps educate state and national policy makers and the public about the importance of consumers' rights.

As part of his medical device and pharmaceutical practice, Michael has acquired an extensive working knowledge of federal preemption. Additionally, Michael has been involved with legislative lobbying efforts to defeat federal preemption and restore the right to a trial for the injured. As part of these efforts, Michael has made numerous trips to Washington, D.C. with his clients who have been injured by defective medical devices and pharmaceuticals to meet with both Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate and House of Representatives. Michael has also been invited to contribute his expertise in meetings with both the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Office of the United States' Solicitor General to discuss issues involving pharmaceutical preemption. Most recently, Michael spoke at FDA's Stakeholder Meeting "Supplemental Applications Proposing Labeling Changes for Approved Drugs and Biological Products" in support of FDA's proposed rule that would make generic prescription medications safer and would hold generic manufacturer's accountable for their failure to warn of dangerous adverse side effects associated with their drugs. Michael has been quoted in numerous media outlets regarding medical device and pharmaceutical litigation.

LEGAL REPRESENTATION AGREEMENT

By this agreement ("Agreement") I _____ ("Client") hereby hire Johnson Becker, PLLC and Fields Law Firm, LTD (the "Law Firms") as my attorneys to represent me in all of my claims ("Client's Claims") connected to economic damages caused by Syngenta Seeds Inc. (now known as Syngenta Seeds, LLC), and its parents, subsidiaries, and affiliates, and other defendants that contributed to the adverse effect on the U.S. corn market (Syngenta Litigation). This Agreement specifically does not include any claim in which the Client used Viptera or Duracade seeds during the growing seasons involved in this claim.

ATTORNEY FEE AND COSTS. The Law Firms shall advance all costs to investigate and prosecute the Client's claims. In consideration for the Law Firm's representation of Client in the prosecution of Client's Claims, the Client agrees to pay the Law Firms as attorneys' fees and costs forty percent (40%) of everything of value received by client in connection with Client's Claims. The total attorney fee and costs is forty percent (40%). Client will owe no other attorney fees or costs. Attorney fee will be based on the gross amount recovered for the Client. The Law Firms will assume joint responsibility in the representation of Client's Claims. If there is no recovery, Client owes the Law Firms nothing.

FEE SHARING AMONG LAW FIRMS. Client has been made aware of and consents that at no extra cost to the Client, the Law Firms may enter into a Fee Sharing Agreement between other law firms. Each of the above firms, Johnson Becker, PLLC and Fields Law Firm, LTD will share the net attorney fees, 66 2/3% to Johnson Becker, PLLC and 33 1/3% to Fields Law Firm, LTD. This sharing of fees does not in any way add to fees paid by Client and does not affect Client's share of the recovery.

BAR ADMISSIONS. The attorneys at Johnson Becker, PLLC and Fields Law Firm, LTD are licensed to practice law in Minnesota, where Syngenta Seeds, Inc. maintained its principal place of business, and in turn is subject to the jurisdiction of Minnesota's state and federal courts. However, if it becomes desirable or necessary to pursue Client's Claims in any jurisdiction in which they are not licensed, Johnson Becker, PLLC and Fields Law Firm, LTD will associate with counsel licensed in that jurisdiction and/or seek to be admitted on a pro hac basis as required by the applicable rules of court and professional conduct. If it becomes necessary to associate with counsel licensed in another jurisdiction, that association will not in any way add to fees paid by Client and does not affect Client's share of the recovery.

CLIENT DUTY TO COOPERATE. Client understands and agrees that if the Law Firms cannot, for any reason and at any time, promptly and reasonably communicate with Client, Client authorizes the Law Firms to the full extent allowed by law, to take whatever action the Law Firms determine, in their sole discretion, to be reasonable and necessary to handle Client's Claims. Client further understands and agrees that in certain areas of legal representation, not affecting the merits of the Client's Claims or substantially prejudicing the rights of the Client, the Law Firms are entitled to make decisions, without consulting the Client. Client understands that failure to fully cooperate may result in termination of this Agreement. No settlement can be made without the Client's consent.

CLIENT REPRESENTATIONS. Client knowingly and voluntarily enters into this Agreement of Client's own free will with the understanding that the Law Firms have made no promises of a successful outcome in connection with Client's Claims. Client has had ample opportunity to seek independent legal counsel independent of the Law Firms in connection with the Client's Claims and this Agreement. Client represents that Client has all of the rights and title to, and interest in, Client's Claims, free and clear of encumbrances of any kind. Client has not and is not permitted to assign any or all of the Client's rights under this Agreement without written consent to do so by the Law Firms.

ENTIRE AGREEMENT. This document contains all of the terms of representation of the Client by the Law Firms. There are no oral or written terms of agreement other than those in this document. If any provision of this Agreement or the application thereof is held invalid or unenforceable, the invalidity or unenforceability of those provisions shall not affect the enforceability or validity of the other provisions of this Agreement.
